Oklahoma State Association of Parliamentarians

President's Message

Rod Davidson, PRP, OSAP President

Greetings OSAP Members! It is an honor to serve as your 2008-2009 President, and I will do my best to make this a great year for the Oklahoma State Association of Parliamentarians!

One of our hopes this year is to attract our Provisional Members and our Regular Members to the Friday workshop, as it offers something for the beginner as well as the seasoned parliamentarian. Last year's workshop was very successful with 45 in attendance. Workshop Sessions were taught by Oklahoma PRP's and RP's as well as by our National Representative, Sandra Olson, PRP (NAP Secretary) and District Six Representative, Ella Carlson, PRP. One of the highlights was a Lunch-and-Learn session where participants asked questions and received answers from the five Professional Registered Parliamentarians in attendance.

We also want to encourage all OSAP members to attend the convention on Saturday. The morning will be devoted to the OSAP annual business meeting, and educational workshops will be held in the afternoon. Last year, nine participants from the Friday's workshop also attended the workshops on Saturday afternoon. We received excellent scores on the evaluations for both Friday and Saturday. As an incentive for members to attend the convention this year, there will be a drawing and one OSAP member's registration fee will be paid from a donation received for this purpose.

Membership retention and growth is important to the future of OSAP, so we encourage each of the units to promote the NAP membership test. One of the benefits of membership in NAP is receiving the quarterly publication, National Parliamentarian, filled with interesting articles and news. Another benefit is knowing that you are supporting a worthwhile cause that benefits people in all kinds of organizations, both local and national.

Studying parliamentary procedure is a continuous learning experience, and one can never learn it all. I encourage anyone interested in advancing their parliamentary knowledge to study for the exam to become a Registered Parliamentarian. I have found being a Professional Registered Parliamentarian to be interesting and personally rewarding. Last May, I attended the Texas annual convention and took the Professional Development Course (PDC), which is a requirement every six years for retaining PRP status. I am proud to announce that I successfully passed the course. The PDC was a challenge, to say the least!!

Call for Officer Nominations

The OSAP bylaws provide that Units or members of OSAP may, no less than 90 days preceding the Convention, present to the Nominating Committee names of proposed candidates for office, together with qualifications and consent form. The committee will consider all recommendations.

Elections will be held at the 2009 annual OSAP convention in June for the offices of President, Vice President, Secretary, and Treasurer. Time is short, so please submit nominations by March 15, 2009 along with qualifications and consent form via email to :

Oil Capital Unit members gave a workshop on October 24th to a crowd of about 30 with the Wagoner County Home Community Educators.

Three Oil Capital members are studying for the Registered Parliamentarian exam. Dr. Janet Wilson, PRP, is teaching the class, which is open to anyone whether or not they are committed to taking the registry exam. The class is based on the 1200 study questions from NAP but specific topics are delved into deeper than the questions actually go.

On November 20th, Mary Jo Neal presented a program on basic parliamentary procedure to members of the Tulsa County Head Start Policy Council with approximately 40 members in attendance. She ended the program with a skit she had written demonstrating the processing of a main motion. Volunteers from the Council demonstrated the three scripted parts, and the other members of Council debated and voted on the motions. The skit brought forth some laughs and closed the program on a pleasant note. Mary Jo said, "they were an excellent audience, and I enjoyed very much the evening I spent with them."

Dr. Wilson gave a parliamentary workshop to the Student Government at Tulsa University and to the Rogers State University.

She will be a presenter for a parliamentary workshop at the Texas State Association convention as well as at the District Six Convention in San Antonio in July.

Janet is also a member and parliamentary consultant to the "Voices of Experience", an arm of the Retired Senior Volunteer Program. She presented a free workshop to this group entitled "No Nonsense Nonprofits: Making Meetings Meaningful". The meeting was held at the Hardesty Regional Library and covered the following topics: Common misuse of parliamentary procedure, tips for presiding at a board meeting and how to tailor the order of business to their needs, how to conduct business in small boards and large boards, and what belongs in the minutes.

April Proclaimed Parliamentary Law Month

In recognizing April as Parliamentary Law Month, OSAP honors Thomas Jefferson, author of the first American manual of parliamentary procedure and General Henry Martyn Robert, author of Pocket Manual of Rules of Order for Deliberative Assemblies, familiarly known as Robert's Rules of Order.

It is important to remember that the correct use of parliamentary procedure protects the rights of the majority, the minority, individual members, absentees, and all of these together.

The Oklahoma State Association of Parliamentarians, along with the National Association of Parliamentarians, urges all members to promote democratic processes and efficient meetings through parliamentary practice and to observe the month of April with appropriate programs, ceremonies, and activities.

Anyone interested in learning more about parliamentary law and parliamentary procedure is encouraged to visit the National Association of Parliamentarians website located at www.parliamentarians.org

or the Oklahoma State Association of Parliamentarians website located at

A ParliPro Moment: Can Offices be Split?

by Rod Davidson, PRP

QUESTION:

Our organization is in the midst of conducting elections. Two candidates have come forward for the position of Vice-President. Our bylaws state that the board shall be composed of seven elected members, i.e., President, Vice-President, Secretary, Treasurer, Financial Secretary, and two Directors At Large. To benefit the club, can the Nominating Committee bring this to the current President and ask that both candidates be First and Second Vice-Presidents so that there would be no vote and both would be sworn in with the installation of all the other officers entering office? They plan to ask the President if that would be acceptable and have the President either approve it or turn it down. Is this acceptable procedure?

ANSWER:

The bylaws specify who the officers are, and no other officer positions can be created unless the bylaws are amended. The President cannot approve an arrangement such as the one you suggest because it would be in violation of your bylaws, which names the officers of the association. The Nominating Committee could nominate both and let the members decide which one to elect, or the Nominating Committee could choose which will be the single nominee from the committee for that position. At the election meeting, members could nominate additional candidates from the floor. Refer to Robert's Rules of Order Newly Revised (RONR), 10th edition, p. 421:

"After the nominating committee has presented its report and before voting for the different offices takes place, the chair must call for further nominations from the floor."
